Is it the buildings? Is it the professors? Is it the bird? Just what is it that makes Oglethorpe unique and keeps students attending year after year? Is it the NEW RADIO STATION (shameless plug) ? Is it the diversity of the people? Diversity: if any word describes Oglethorpe, that would be it. For 1,280 students overall, one could not ask for a wider variety of talents, styles, personalities, and nationalities. Thirty-one states, thirty countries, one large city, one small school.

DIVERSITY

It's what a liberal arts education is about: being well-educated, well-rounded. No two people are alike. And no school is quite like OU.

The Oglethorpe community is branching out and making connections all over the world! In the past five years, Oglethorpe faculty members have taken trips to Russia, France, Japan, France, Argentina, Belize and England. A strong study program for students has flourished in recent years, as well. Students have taken advantage of exchange programs with Universidad de Belgrano and Universidad del Salvador in Argentina, the Lycee Jean-Auguste Margueritte and the Universite Catholique de Lille in France, Seigakuin University in Japan, and Haagse Hogeschool in the Netherlands.

Sophana Lim has her bags filled after visiting the Hard Rock Cafe in London. Sophana visited several European countries in the summer of 1992.

Jennifer Hornor spent her junior year at one of Oglethorpe's sister schools, the Lycee Jean-Auguste Margueritte, in Verdun, France.

In 1995, Oglethorpe had 40 international students on its campus; many came on scholarships and through exchange programs. Organizations such as International Club, the Orient Club, and the French Club contributed to the internationalization of daily campus life. Once a year International Night, an evening of entertainment, food, and displays from around the allows these students to share parts of their native culture. Phi Beta Delta, an honor society, was chartered to encourage a greater international awareness, both for foreign and American students.

Opening

The Oglethorpe University Museum entered the international spotlight this year when the exhibit Four From Madrid: Contemporary Spanish Realism opened on October 2. The exhibit included 24 paintings by four young Spanish artists, Gustavo Isoe, Francisco Roa, Bernardo Torrens and Dino Valls. Though the artists are all defined as realists, individual styles and interests were apparent in the paintings.

Each artist created his own

painting either from imagination or live models. The exhibit drew hundreds of Atlanta's elite and representatives for the Ambassador of Spain and Mayor Bill Campbell.

With everyone in Atlanta rushing to be a part of the 1996 Centennial Olympic Games, Oglethorpe has not been left behind. This year the Oglethorpe community's involvement ranged from renting out on-campus facilities to hosting an

the map when the world
arrives for the Summer
Games next year.

STUDENT LIFE

On October 2, 1994, members of the Oglethorpe community traveled to Midway, Georgia, to attend the dedication ceremony for a historical marker at the site of Old Oglethorpe University. The new marker at Midway, near Milledgeville, replaces one that was lost, and ensures that this important part of Oglethorpe University's will not be forgotten. Members of the Milledgeville community, Daughters of the American Revolution, and Baldwin county officials were present at the ceremony, which took place inside the Firehouse and was followed by a reception.

Paul Hudson, Oglethorpe Registrar and Lecturer in History, presented "A History of Old Oglethorpe" during the dedication ceremony.

Dr. and Mrs. Stanton stand beside the new marker.

Floride M. Gardner, Regent of the Nancy Hart Chapter of the NSDAR, spoke about "Remembering Old Oglethorpe" during the ceremony.

Members of the Oglethorpe University Chorale sang the Oglethorpe Alma Mater.

Paul L. Dillingham, Vice President for Development, and James E. Bangh, Mayor of Milledgeville, talk during the reception.

The first weekend in October is Parents' Weekend. For some students, the prospect of the parents being in town for an entire weekend is nerve-wracking. You struggle to think of activities to keep them busy. No problem! Your parents will be attending classes, dining in the cafeteria, attending soccer games, and participating in

Showtime at Oglethorpe

University. Giving you money (hopefully!) and advice (sigh!) as they leave, you wonder if they really enjoyed themselves at OU (they did), and if you are really going to miss them now that they're gone

(you will).

Amy Marie Puckett shows her parents the ins and outs of eating in the OU cafeteria.

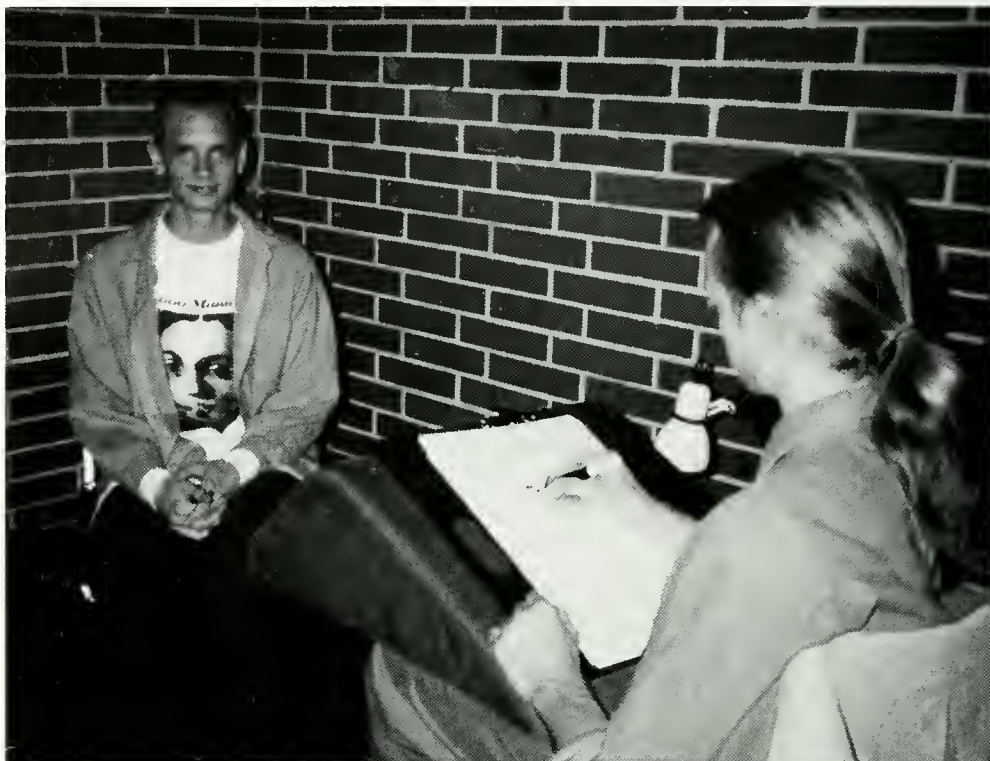

On November 12, OSA sponsored Casino Night, an opportunity for students to gamble in the dining hall--legally. In came roulette, craps, and blackjack tables. Everyone received $20,000 in play money and hit the tables. Every half hour or so, a ticket number was called out, and one lucky soul had a chance to test his skill in picking up flying dollar bills in the

MONEY

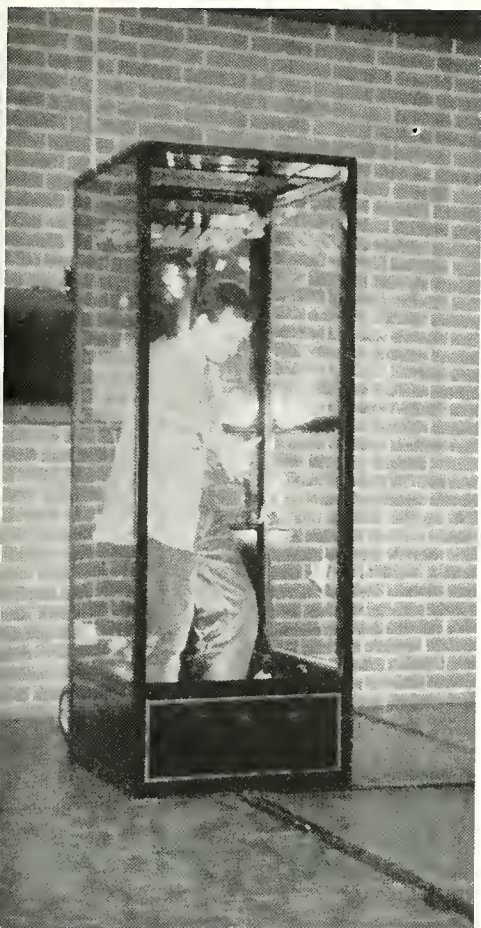

Machine. For those totally lacking in luck, a magician and three caricature artists provided ample entertainment. In the last shining moment of the evening, Jeff White left with the biggest prize of the night, a brand new color TV.

Jason Knaley has his caricature drawn by one of the artists.

Oglethorpe Day 1995 began with a Summons to the Celebration, complete with music from the Atlanta Bagpipe Band, led by alumnus David Wuichet. The annual "Petrels of Fire" Race took place next, with no runners able to beat the Lupton Tower clock striking the hour. But surely the most memorable parts of

PERFORMANCES

The Playmakers present: a serious comedy. What? There's no such thing! Ah! But when you speak of Moliere, the French playwright of the 17th century, you'll find more than you bargained for. Staging one of Moliere's most difficult comedies, the Playmakers pulled off a spectacular performance, easily rivaling past performances of Moliere's work. With an eclectic cast of characters The Misanthrope dazzled and amused audiences with the ridiculous posturing of Alceste, the misanthrope, and the witty banter of Celimene and her guests. With props donated by the Georgia Shakespeare Festival, the new lighting technician, Rob Dillard, and the strong leadership of director Lee Boggus Knippenberg, this fall's Playmakers have proven that Moliere's plays are just as meaningful in the modern world as they were in his time.

MUSEUM

Ever visited the OU Museum? Ever notice what kinds of people go to museums? The cast and crew of Alpha Psi Omega, the National Honorary Dramatics Fraternity, decided to help several audiences see exactly what you can expect in a museum: the unexpected! Tina Howe's Museum gives a comical look at the kinds of people that frequent museums; from an emotionally disturbed artist's friend to the confused red-neck, Howe "breaks the silence" of a normally tranquil art show with a variety of characters. Under Lee Knippenberg's direction, Alpha Psi took audience members to the edge of comedy (sanity?) while leaving them with a particularly powerful message.

The Oglethorpe University Playmakers presented their annual Children's Theatre on February 17 and 18.

This year's production, Sir Slob and the Princess, drew children from the local schools and the Oglethorpe community, as well as students and faculty. All of these audiences witnessed a fabulous tale of simple goodness triumphing over adversity. And they got to have fun with the cast before and after the production in true Children's Theatre style.

Errand of Mercy by Frank

Manley is a one act drama.

Shaunna Graf directed it under the apprenticeship in theatre program. Two older women visit Ray Burgess on a church "errand of mercy." Orabelle, played by Lee Knippenberg, has been doing her errands for many years and is ready to be in and out in a few moments. Ruby, played by Jenifer Parks, is visiting with Orabelle for the first time. Ray Burgess, played by Michael Billingsley, is a stroke victim. He has lost the ability to speak, so he uses a Ouija board to communicate with others. Ruby and Ray have an instant connection which develops into a friendship that will be continued long after the first meeting. Ruby breaks down some of the arctic circle surrounding her, letting the audience understand why she acts as she does.

The Oglethorpe
Honor Code, which has be-

major changes in the coming

Due to several noted cases of ambiguity in the word-general change in attitude as to what the code should be, a coalition of teacher and stu-

ATHLETICS

CROSS COUNTRY

This year's team consisted of Seniors: Beau Lyons, Jason Arnold, and Linda Davis; Juniors: Doug Pack, Alan Tudors, Lew Leckrone, Scott Stagg, and Stephanie Chaby; Sophomores: Chip Kohlweiler and Hope LeBeau; and Freshmen: Jeff Thomas, Kristine Lawrie, Christina Burnham, Sabrina Soles, and Alicia Hodkin.

The Men's squad ended up 7-1 for the season and ranked 6th in Conference

The Women's Squad ended up 5-2 for the season and ranked 7th in Conference

One notable for the season was Doug Pack, who was All-Conference and went on to compete yet again as a National Finalist.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

VOLLEYBALL

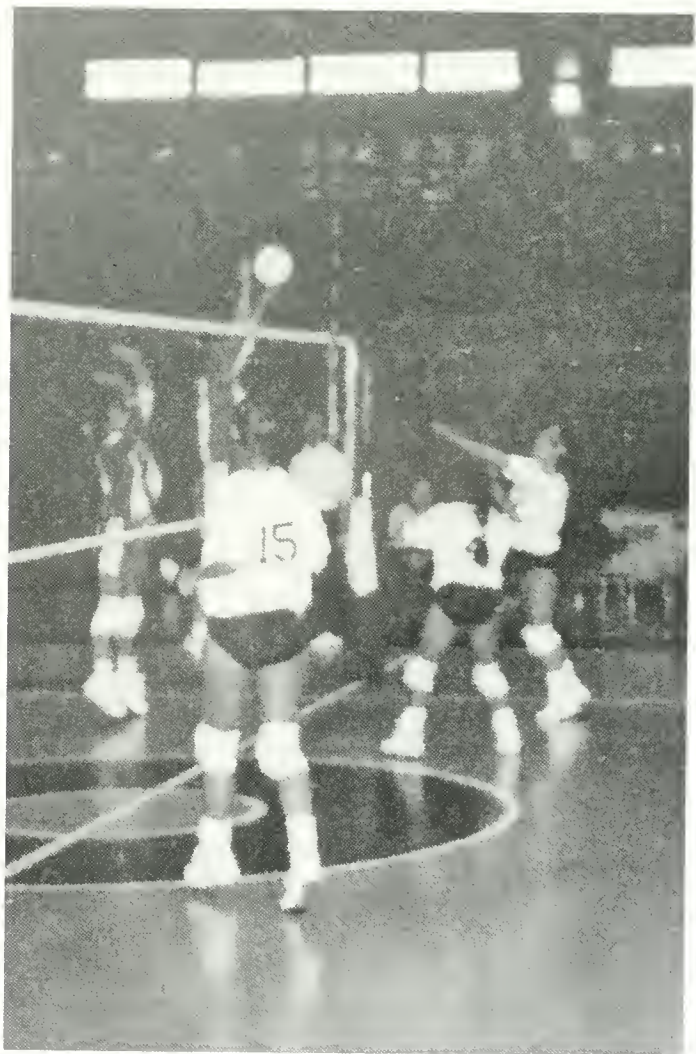

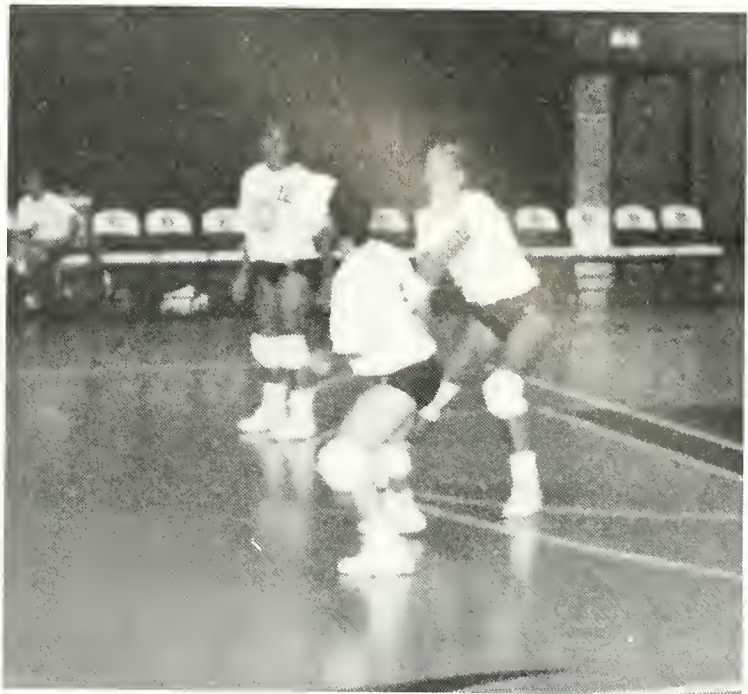

The Oglethorpe Women's Volleyball team completed a winning season with a record of 22-19. Single match highs for this season were: Ann Mason with 26 kills against Emory during their 9-16 match, Melissa Drouin with 6 service aces during the 9-13 match against Agnes Scott, Noriko Murata with 6 blocks against Greensboro on the 10-1 match, and Susan Poston with 44 digs against Emory in the 9-16 match. In that 9-16 match versus Emory the team totaled 184 digs.

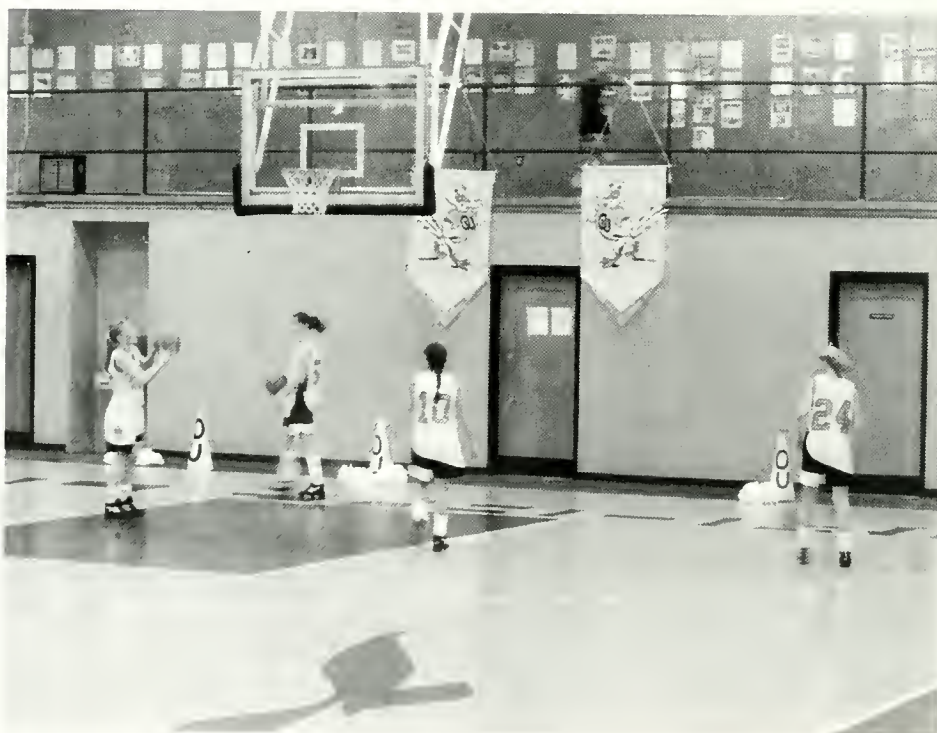

This year's Women's Volleyball team brought students together from as far away as Tokyo, Japan to as close as Warner Robins, GA.

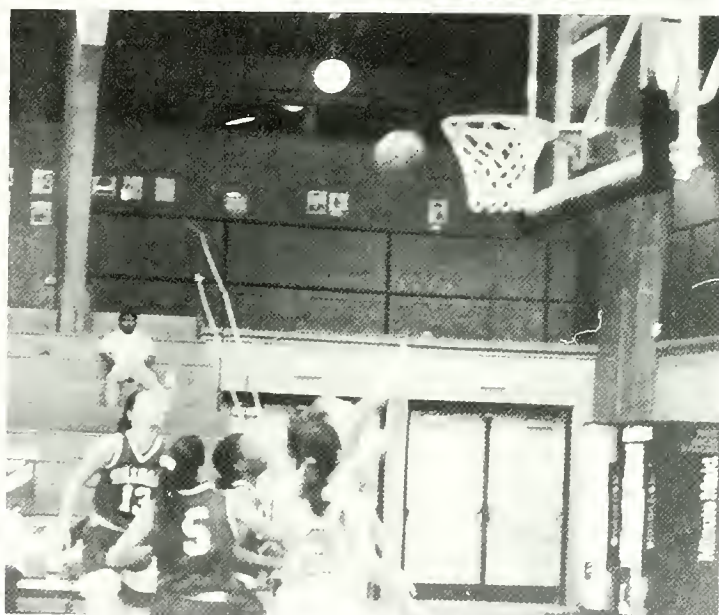

The team consisted of Seniors: Noriko Murata, Lu Green, Susan Poston, and Ann Mason; Sophomores: Melissa Drouin and Kim Worley; and Freshman Megan McQueen and was coached by Brenda K. Hillman

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Seniors Andy Schutt and Cornell Longino were named "most valuable players" at the Oglethorpe University basketball banquet.

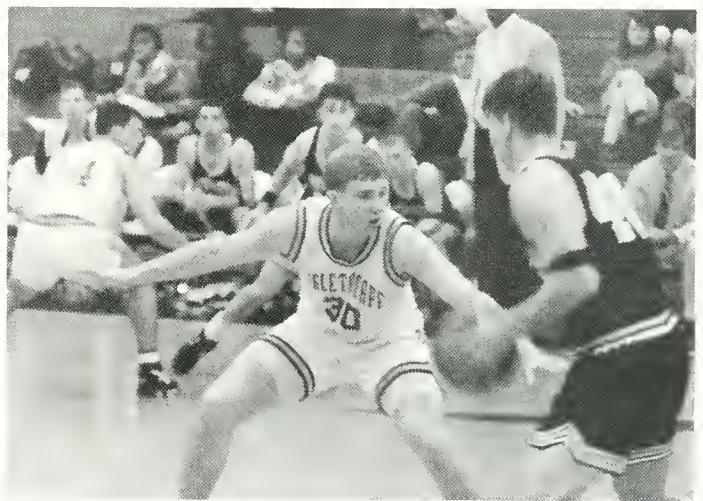

Other award winners were Clay Davis, "Stormy Petrel" award, Jack Stephens, "Coaches' Award" and Bryon Letourneau "academic award".

Letterneau, Ryan Strong, and Ryan Vickers were named "Tri-Captains" of the 1995-96 team. Strong and Letourneau will be juniors next season, Vickers a Senior.

Coach Jack Berkshire's team finished with an 18-8 record and landed a berth in the NCAA division III tournament. Schutt became a 1,000-point career scorer and Longino the all-time assist leader.

Copy submitted by Gene Asher and Photograph submitted by Mark Caprio

Four players hit over .330 and pitcher Chip Evans won seven of eight games to lead coach Billy Popp's baseball team to a 25-13 record and a berth in the SCAC tournament.

For more than 100 at bats, Matt Weiner, who chased Luke Appling's hitting record for most of the season, led the team with a .360 average. He also led in RBI's with 34.

Tommy Gambino batted .358 and led the team in doubles with 11. He also had three home runs.

Tim Crowley hit a solid .33 and Eric Kung, who got to the plate 71 times, had 24 hits for a .366 average.

Evans not only led the team in victories but posted the best ERA--3.2. Mike Thomas had five wins against three losses and a 4.8 ERA.

Gambino and Weiner were named to the SCAC first team and recieved honorable mention on the NCAA Division III All-South squad.

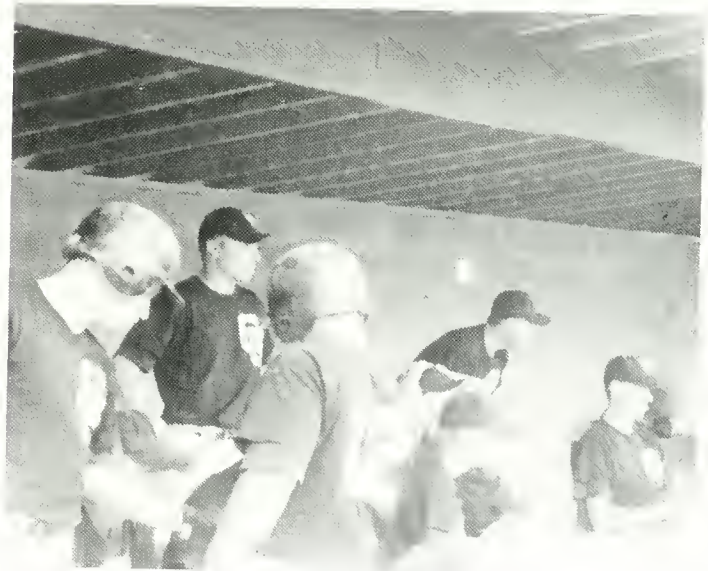

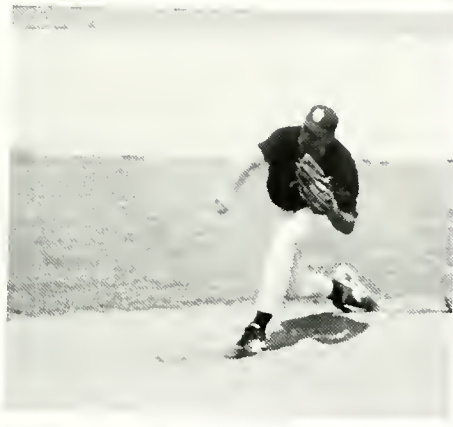

Nine Seniors, including Weiner, Lukow, Evans, Thomas and the dependable Jim Moccio, graduated but the outlook for 1995 is not entirely bleak.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

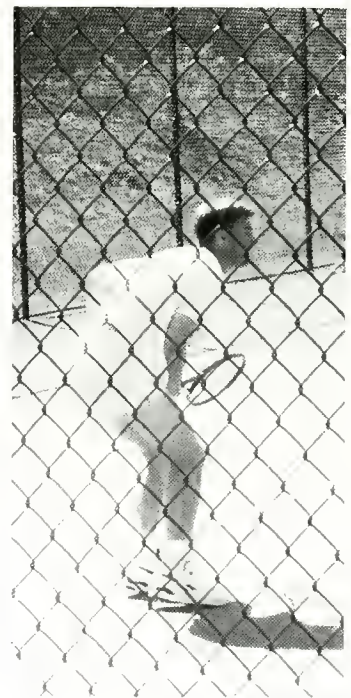

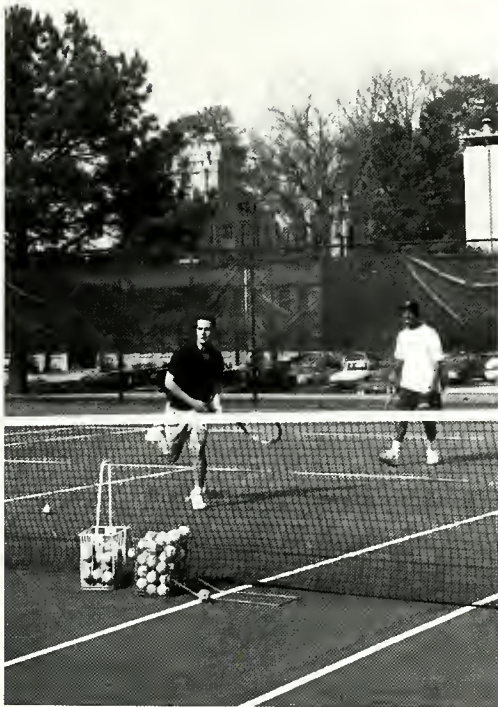

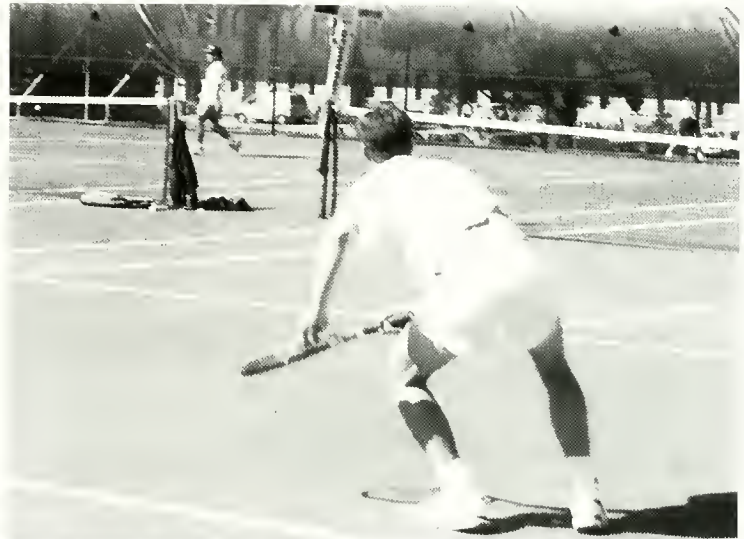

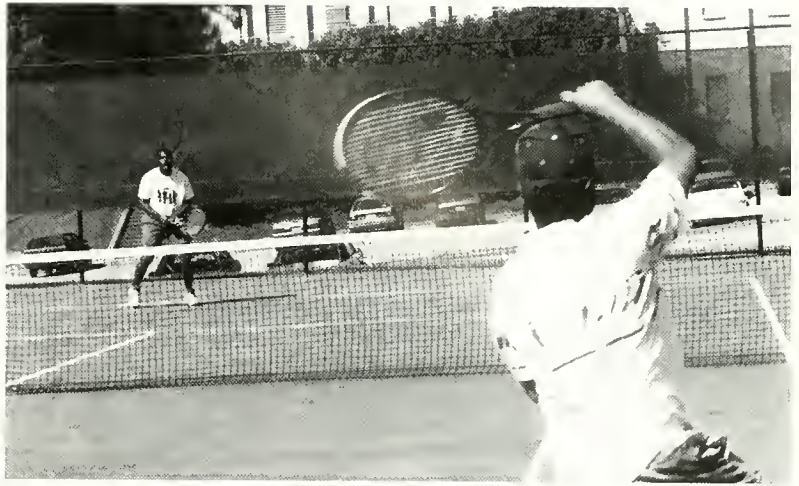

MEN'S TENNIS

TRACK & FIELD

Coach Bob Unger

Women's track team finished the season in a blaze of glory and together with the men's cinder team gave the Stormy Petrels one of their best track records in history.

The Lady Petrel's smashed eight records at the SCAC championships, three of which were nailed by Katie Farrell, A Senior out of Lawrenceburg, IN.

Farrell established new Oglethorpe University standards for the 10 K, 800 meters, and 3 K. The records she bettered were her own. Donnett Miller, a Junior from Jamaica, smashed two SCAC records in winning the long jump with a 16'8" mark and the high jump with a 5'2" mark.

The 4 x 100 relay team, featuring Miller, Stephanie Everett, Tinie Waterston and Yvette Nemeth, posted a new standard of 53.24 and Mary McPherson did the same with a 30'9" toss of the shot put. Nemeth added another OU record with a 16.6 mark in the high hurdles.

Coach Unger's women were undefeated in five dual meets. The men were almost but not quite as impressive as the women. They won four of five dual meets.

Alan Tudors was selected to the All-SCAC team. He set a new OU record for 3 K in an impressive time of 10:12.

Coach Unger brought a great deal of credit to Oglethorpe, not only for his teams performances during the year and at the conference championships but also for hosting the Atlanta Track Club's "All-Comers" track meet during the months of May and June. It was during one of these meets that Ms. Farrell broke another OU record for the 5 K. No great surprise that she was named Oglethorpe's "Athlete of the Year".

Trust Company's Name Is Changing to SunTrust.

Soon, Trust Company Bank signs will come down and new, blue SunTrust signs will go up. The people you know will still be here, and we'll be looking for ways to enhance the products and services you've come to rely on.

So why the change? Well, Trust Company has been a part of the SunTrust family for over a decade. With SunTrust banks operating in four different states, under seven different names, it made sense to try to simplify matters. So now all SunTrust banks will be known by our corporate name.

With total assets of more than $44 billion and over 100 years of family history, SunTrust is among the 20 largest banking companies in the nation. We are also recognized as one of the strongest. SunTrust provides a wide range of financial services at over 650 locations in Florida, Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama. Having one common name to remember will mean greater convenience for our customers throughout the Southeast.

Oglethorpe University Alma Mater

Our dear Alma Mater, to you we sing our praise. Your gray stone and mortar give strength for the coming days. Then like the Petrel, feet near the ocean, We'll rise thru wind and rain. Yes, Oglethorpe you're here to remind us: Nescit Cedere.
